

Officials pledge more drug arrests

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

State's Attorney Don Weber pledged Thursday that all suspects indicted in drug trafficking from the Granite City area will eventually be caught as part of a seven-month long "sting" operation involving surveillance and videotaping of suspects as they made drug transactions. During a press conference at the Madison County Jail, Weber predicted, "Eventually we'll get them all."

At the time of the press conference, 30 suspects were in custody, but 11 fugitives had eluded law enforcement officers. Later that afternoon, a Madison County grand jury returned 22 more indictments against suspects in the operation.

Jim Nichols, director of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois (MEGSI), said, "It will be a tedious process to locate and relocate them (the fugitives)." Weber said it probably will take about a year to make all the arrests.

There was no single drug ring in-involved in the "sting" operation, but "smaller interacting rings," Weber said. Officials started on a lower level and were led to 43 suspects, all of whom allegedly are dealers in various drugs. Nichols said the arrests will have "an impact on Madison County, but as soon as we take a person out, there's another one ready to fill that spot." He added that the impact of the operation would last about "three or four months."

Approximately $140,000 in undercover money was used during the operation, which was conducted 24 hours a day since Jan. 2, 1982. A woman concerned with drug trafficking in the area volunteered to act as the operation's front, with an agent acting as her boyfriend to make the transactions.

Weber said that several large buys were made by law enforcement personnel during the operation including purchases of 55.3 grams of heroin for $33,000 and 13 grams of cocaine for $13,000.

A $100,000 transaction was to be made (Continued on Page 7)

List still growing

John Doe escaped indictment for drug abuse last week, but Cindy Doe did appear on the grand jury's list of indictments, now totaling 36 and still growing. And Fnu Lnu (first name unknown; last name unknown) was among 43 named in various charges by regional and state investigators.

Eleven persons currently are shown as being indicted and not yet in custody. They are: Tina Adams, 19, of 2408 State St., metamphetamene, two counts, $100,000 bond.

Henry Beavers, 54, of 121 Commercial, National City, cocaine and placidyl, two counts, $150,000 bond. Robert S. Benda, 25, of 2530 Pine St., metamphetamene, two counts, $100,000 bond.

City residents 'pawns' in SCA-GC litigation

By GEORGEANN MCGEE

When Kerry Green Sr., 2513 E. 25th St., loaded up his pickup truck July 2 and then headed to the SCA Services Madison Avenue office for a permit to dump trash, he had no idea the landfill company and the city were embroiled in a legal battle.

Green found the permit office closed that Friday morning and a note on the door notifying residents permits would be given out only at the landfill site from 8 to 10 a.m. Mondays through Fridays.

By the time Green arrived at the Chain of Rocks SCA-owned landfill on Chouteau Island, the time was 11 a.m., too late to empty his truck without paying for a service Granite City residents are supposed to receive free of charge under an SCA disposal and collection contract.

Green found himself caught in the second recent change in SCA regulations during the last two months affecting residents looking for a handy site to haul their trash.

Before the changes, city residents could obtain landfill permits at the office of City Inspector Emerald Davey, who routinely checked cars for city stickers before issuing coupons to be presented at the landfill as proof of city residency.

On June 1, a few days before Granite

City attorneys went to court and won a temporary restraining order preventing SCA Services from slowing city trucks hauling in sludge from the city's sewage treatment plant, the residents were told they would have to report to the SCA Service's own office for the coupons.

Without apparent notice to either city officials or residents, SCA closed the office on Madison Avenue earlier this month and enforced the new two-hour morning rule for securing the permits.

For Green, unaware that the city and SCA were involved in a dispute over the amount and type of sludge that could be dumped in another SCA Service's landfill near Route 203 and Bend Road, the new rules meant a round of phone calls, a trip to Mayor Paul Schalen's office and, finally, talk of his own legal action.

By 1:30 p.m. that day, he succeeded in dumping his trash and headed home.

Meanwhile Green's complaint, along with those of other residents, were channeled to City Clerk Robert W. Stevens and the mayor's office and were received at the same time attorneys for SCA and the city waited a return to court July 9.

At that time, the city intended to present arguments in front of Madison County Judge Jonathan Isbell, who was to determine if a more permanent restraining order was to be issued.

SCA attorneys, however, requested a delay to allow more time for negotiations, and also decided to allow a temporary compromise for city residents bound by SCA's latest restrictions.

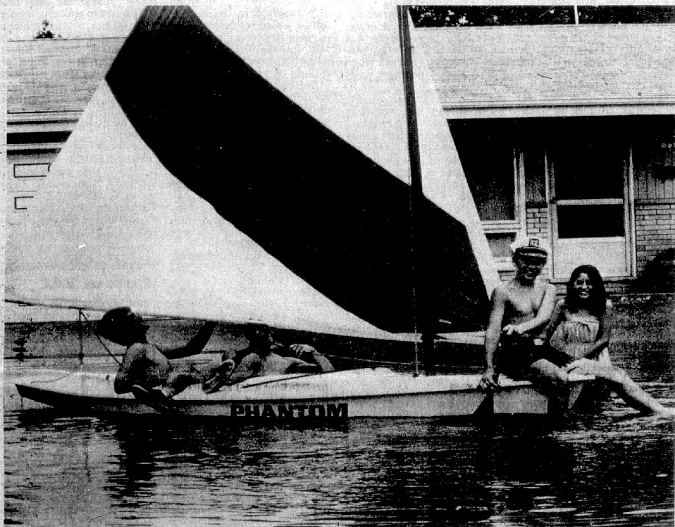

SCA Services Regional Manager Ron Ross and SCA Illinois Regional Manager Richard Valentin said that Granite City residents may now deposit trash at the Chain of Rocks landfill from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays without prior permits until Monday July 19.

After that date, residents will be expected to obtain permits during office hours at SCA's new location on Highway 111 and 162, before proceeding to the company's landfill on Chouteau Island.

According to an SCA representative, the Granite City office was closed because of economic reasons, and the 8 to 10 a.m. restriction on residents seeking permits at the landfill earlier this month was for safety reasons.

Both SCA managers decided against commenting on the nature of the dispute between Granite City and themselves, citing ongoing negotiations and litigation.

Assistant City Attorney Irvin C. Slate Jr. said Friday that the company has (Continued on Page 7)

Downpour floods streets

An early Saturday morning torrential rainfall upset the normal weekend rhythm of the area for several hours, bringing deep water that closed the Venice Broadway underpass and lighting which blacked out the Granite City Locks No. 27 for at least five hours. Many streets were flooded and St. Elizabeth Medical Center was forced to go on emergency power in one area, in case water reached transformers.

Rain storm estimates vary from 2.81 inches at the locks, 3.2 reported at St. Louis television weather monitors and other recordings exceeding well over four inches were reported by various residents.

The storm found some Quad-City area residents with knee-deep flooded basements when they awoke Saturday morning. Early shopping residents and workers had to wade through curbs to curb water in some areas, including parts of Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center.

Some residents met the unusual rainfall with a spirit of adventure, including sailboating on Miami Court.

Others found the storm left less light-heated situations in its wake. A Bi-Slate bus had to be pulled from the previously-flooded Venice Broadway underpass. It was among more than a dozen vehicles which stalled in the standing water in the underpass, which has experienced drainage problems from collapsed underground tiles and is due for major repairs immediately.

A Granite City ambulance, trying to avoid water during an emergency call to a possible drug overdose, slid off Johnson Road at Amos Avenue into St. Elizabeth's Church field. The ambulance had to be towed from the field. Another ambulance used a different route to handle the emergency.

Granite City Street Superintendent Mac Warfield said the storm was the worst to hit the area this year. He said he first was asked for assistance by the Granite City Police Department about 4 a.m. Saturday, when water pumping stations began registering overloads.

Warfield said all city lift stations held out during the duration of the storm and afterwards, working to drain off still flooded streets, but he said there was no way for the pumps to keep up with the constant downpour.

One problem was the Nameoki stormwater ditch, which connects to Horseshoe Lake. Warfield said the ditch at St. Clair Avenue was full to its bank. Last Saturday was the only time he remembers the ditch reaching such a high mark. Nearby streets could not be drained until the ditch level went down.

Urban indicted for theft

Ben S. Urban, former Collinsville city attorney indicted Thursday afternoon, pleaded innocent Friday. He is charged with stealing $8,504 as part of a scheme that took more than $100,000 in bond funds posted after the arrests of drivers of overweight trucks.

A nine-count indictment returned by a Madison County grand jury included eight theft allegations. There was one charge of forgery for allegedly endorsing and cashing a check issued in the name of one of the truck drivers. Urban, 41, resides in Collinsville and has a law office in Belleville. He submitted his plea of innocence to Chief Circuit Judge Joseph J. Barr at Edwardsville.

The lawyer testified to grand jurors on Thursday after waiting in an empty courtroom for more than an hour in an effort to avoid news photographers. Urban appeared before the jurors for only several minutes. His wife also is said to have gone into the grand jury room briefly on Thursday.

His attorney, Marvin Goldenherst of Belleville, said Urban may seek to move his trial out of Madison County due to widespread public awareness of the truck bond case.

State's Attorney Donald Weber said 125 arrest tickets over a three-year period were investigated by the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation, resulting in a massive accumulation of evidence, but that it was unnecessary to seek indictments in all of the cases. Instead, representative cases were chosen, he explained.

Assistant State's Attorney Susan Josen filed a motion Friday asking the judge to order Urban to provide a sample of his handwriting. Barr gave the defense ten days in which to file an objection to the motion. As city attorney until July 1, Urban prosecuted traffic and misdemeanor cases for Collinsville. It is said there was no connection between his activities for the municipality and anything he did regarding cases stemming from the state weighing station on Interstates 55-70.

The state's charges against truck drivers were filed at the Madison County circuit clerk's branch office in the Collinsville City Hall.

It is alleged that someone obtained out-of-state defendants' names and Third Circuit Court docket numbers and then used a photocopy method to create bogus court orders. Near the bottom of the forged orders were purported signatures of unsuspecting judges and prosecutors.

Many of the cash bonds totaled $1,000 to $1,200. The supposed orders dismissed the cases, freeing the bonds for release by court staffs.

Mature drivers attending crash prevention class

Additional volunteers are being sought in Illinois to become instructors for "55 Alive-Mature Driving," the nation's first comprehensive classroom accident prevention refresher course, designed specifically for drivers age 55 and over by the American Association of Retired Persons.

Men and women, 55 or older, may qualify to become instructors after participating in the "55 Alive" course. It is being introduced as a growing list of communities in Illinois.

A spokesman said more instructors are needed so that the course may be offered to all senior drivers who wish to update and improve their driving skills. Training is provided by the AARP.

The effects of aging and medications on driving, basic driving rules of the road, local driving hazards, accident prevention measures, hazardous driving conditions and other topics pertaining to the senior driver are discussed in two half-day sessions.

Men and women 55 and older, licensed Illinois drivers, are eligible to participate in the class and may qualify to become a volunteer instructor.

Illinois drivers who successfully complete the course may also qualify for auto liability insurance cost reduction, according to Public Act 82-721, which became effective on July 1, 1982.

Ray Patten, state coordinator of "55 Alive," is at P.O. Box 542, Oak Lawn 60454.

Q. For quite a few years, I've claimed only one exemption for income tax withholding purposes, although I'm legally entitled to four. I usually get a refund which I look upon as extra cash or a bonus. These days, I could certainly use the extra cash now, rather than later. Is it generally a good practice to have an employer take out a higher amount of withholding tax than necessary?

A. When your employer has been authorized (by you) to withhold more than is necessary from your paycheck, you are literally giving the Internal Revenue Service the use of your money, interest-free all year. Your refund never carries an interest payment with it. In most cases, the wiser course is to figure as closely as possible what your tax liability will be, and ask your employer to withhold only what is necessary in order to meet that liability. Then, put that extra money to work earning interest, for example in one of several interest-earning and available savings accounts.

Controls not helping farmers

(This is the eighth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Food and People.") Don Paarlberg, professor emeritus at Purdue University, today discusses the controversial agricultural commodities programs. Copyright © 1982 by the Regents of the University of California.)
By DON PAARLBERG
It is now almost 50 years since the federal government assumed a major role in determining the production and pricing of farm products.

The commodity programs — which were in full force from 1933 to 1973 and still continue on a reduced scale — were designed in part to save the family farm from threatened economic disaster.

Yet today, the independent family farmer seems to be an endangered species. An average of 2,000 farms went out of business every week since 1950.

Although 95 percent of U.S. farms are family owned, the U.S. Department of Agriculture predicts "there will be a few large farms continuing food production in only a few years."

As commodity programs in agriculture phase down, it seems appropriate to assess the government activities begun during the Depression.

STATED PURPOSES.
The major objectives of the commodity program were to increase the prices of farm products; to stabilize supplies; to improve farm incomes; and to save the family farm.

These objectives were to be accomplished mainly by paying farmers to curtail production, thus driving up prices. The programs applied chiefly to wheat, corn, cotton, rice, peanuts, tobacco, dairy products, wool, and sugar.

Meat, poultry, fruits, and most vegetables were never deeply involved. Inclusion was based mainly on the workability of the commodity programs.

Because the program's scope was limited, so too was its ability to achieve its objectives.

The measuring rod for prices was parity; that is, a given amount of the commodity should purchase the same goods and services as it did in the period 1910-1914, when farmers enjoyed a relatively good standard of living.

During the three Depression years of 1930-32, immediately before enactment of the commodity programs, farm prices averaged 72 percent of parity.

In the last three years that the programs were in substantial full force, 1970-72, farm prices again were 72 percent of parity, the same as before the programs began. Forty years of effort and failed to achieve the parity price objectives.

Together with other government initiatives, the programs ended bringing about some stability. The disastrous price declines of 1920-21 and 1930-32, when few stabilization programs were in effect, were not repeated after World War II, when there were many such programs.

Supplies as well as prices were stabilized to a degree by storing, in government hands, the commodities that could not be sold at the government-supported price.

These stocks assured consumers of steady supplies, but they also depressed market prices and required deep cuts in farm production.

Incomes of the farm population rose absolutely and relatively during the 4-year life of the programs. Before 1933, the average income for farm people was 70 percent of that for non-farm people. Forty years later, their incomes were about equal.

This gain in per capita farm income, however, probably did not so much to the commodity programs as to the increase in farm size and the decline in the number of farmers, and the increase in off-farm earnings of farmers, which came to exceed their incomes from farming.

Clearly, the program did not preserve the family farm. In 1930, there were 6.5 million farms; by 1970 there were 2.9 million, less than half as many.

This drastic decline in the number of farms was caused chiefly by technological change and resulting farm consolidation.

The commodity programs actually speeded up this process by providing price incentives for greater yields per acre, stimulating the adoption of new large-scale technology.

A major purpose of the commodity programs, perhaps the main one, though not openly acknowledged — was to avert an agricultural uprising.

The Great Depression was an unbelievable disaster to modern Americans. The farm mood in 1930-33 was grim.

The New Deal put into operation the programs the farmers themselves wanted — and put farms to work administering them.

Checks began to flow into farmers' hands, and the mood changed for the better. Elsewhere in the Depression-cursed world, as in Germany and Italy, the open economic system gave way to Fascism. In the United States, the open system survived, though with modifications.

The stated objectives of the commodity programs were thus only partially achieved.

SIDE EFFECTS.
The most profound effects, however, were unintended, and most of them were adverse in terms of program objectives.

The greatest benefits of the program went to the operators of the largest farms, whose incomes were already above the farm and nonfarm average.

The top one percent of farmers received 21 percent of the payments. Average farm incomes increased, but only by widening the gap between rich and poor.

The big farmers used their payments to buy out their smaller neighbors, speeding up the demise of the small farm.

Benefits drove up the price of farm land. A tobacco or peanut allotment was worth more than the land on which the crop was grown.

Thus the program meant a windfall to those who owned the land when the program began, but an added cost to the next generation.

The commodity programs also resulted in the United States losing markets for its exports. For example, from 1930 until 1961, the U.S. held its cotton production to 14.4 million bales.

During the same period, foreign production of cotton doubled. By curtailing production and driving up our price, we priced ourselves out of the market.

The assessment that surplus production was the major problem for farmers became self-fulfilling. If the price of a competitive good is held substantially and continuously above its market price, a surplus inevitably develops regardless of the original supply situation.

The artificially supported price encourages production and discourages consumption; hence the pile-up of stocks in government warehouses.

The programs were costly to consumers and taxpayers. According to economist Charles Schultz, during the period of 1944-69 the program increased the price of food by four percent each year above what it otherwise would have been.

A study initiated by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson placed the cost of the programs to the government at $18 billion for the period of 1932-59.

Since then, costs increased greatly. But Benson's accounting was attacked so strongly by farm interests that it was never updated.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL AND INDIVIDUAL FREEDOM.
One effect, intended or not, was to substitute government decision making for individual freedom of management.

The deep question making for individual freedom of management is the commodity programs and still unanswered, is the degree to which individual freedom is an end in itself, and the degree to which it is but one of several alternative means to the end called increased income.

Farmers who produced certain products — chiefly tobacco, peanuts, sugar, and dairy products — became so dependent on government programs that they resisted the trend toward market orientation that has become evident in the last 15 years.

A fair assessment of the commodity programs is that in the early years they helped to prevent political and economic disaster. But they were continued beyond their time, and with this extended life came an aggravation of their many problems.

In the end, consumers, taxpayers, and many farmers themselves became disillusioned.

Hence the retreat — but not the defeat — of these programs.

We should read the lesson well, lest we repeat it. +++

Final day will be free at state fair

The 1982 Illinois State Fair is affordable for all families this year — it's free on Family Day, the fair's final day, Sunday, Aug. 15.

In keeping with the 1982 Illinois State Fair theme "Where Illinois Gets Together," Gov. Thompson announced that admission, parking and the grandstand attraction will be free on Family Day.

Families from all around the state plan trips to the fairground and this year they've got more reasons than ever before to come to the Illinois State Fair. This year's fair promises to be one of the best ever," said Thompson.

Another highlight of Family Day is the Carnivore World special, which entitles patrons to unlimited access to all midway rides after purchasing a $5 wristband. The free evening grandstand show features physical fitness expert Richard Simmons whose daily television program focuses on exercise and nutrition. Simmons is dedicated to fighting fat and says he is for the body what Billy Graham does for the human spirit.

At one time Simmons, a 5-foot, 7-inch native of Louisiana, said he once was "as big as the Pillsbury Doughboy." Eventually he became a "fat-hater" and lost 130 pounds, but it cost Simmons his health. After being hospitalized as a result of his crash diet, Simmons began studying health and nutrition.

Simmons' battle against the bulge continues in his best-selling book, "Never Say Diet," and its sequel, "The Never Say Diet Cookbook." Additionally, he has recorded "Reach," an exercise album, which features Simmons singing and exercising.

The Hare and Hounds Balloon Race, part of the evening grandstand attraction, is scheduled, along with a grand finale aerial fireworks display.

"Family Day, the last day of the fair, will be a great end to a great week," said Thompson.

Other special events scheduled for Family Day are Abe's Amble, a 10,000 meter race, Bocci Ball and the Cheerleading Contest. The Allen Crowe Memorial 100-mile Stock Car which begins at 2:15 p.m. remains a paid event and tickets are on sale for $8, $7, and $6. The Heinholt Pig Races, the Illinois Talent Showcase, the Crazy Hat Contest and the International Bazaar activities scheduled.

The Illinois State Fair occurs from Aug. 5 to 15 and offers a multitude of activities where Illinoisans will meet for fun, food, competition and music.

Easier to become organ donor now

Three new traffic safety laws and a law that makes it easier for motorists to become organ donors went into effect July 1.

Sec. of State Jim Edgar said, "Two of the new laws reward good drivers." Edgar said, "By exempting them from having to take a written exam, and by offering a liability insurance rate discount to senior drivers completing a defensive driving course."

The two other new laws increase the penalties for motorists who violate a local ordinance by passing a stopped school bus, and permit the back of drivers licenses to be used to identify potential organ donors.

The Secretary of State has waived the requirement that a motorist take a written exam to receive a license renewal, if the motorist's record does not reveal any traffic offense convictions or that the motorist has been involved in an accident.

An estimated 45.6 percent of Illinois motorists are expected to be eligible for the waiver. Eligibility will be checked instantly by computer when the driver brings license renewal forms to a Secretary of State facility.

"This law is important because it rewards responsible motorists who have been careful drivers, obeyed the traffic laws and not been involved in accidents," Edgar said.

Insurance companies are now required to offer premium discounts to persons age 56 and over who have completed a defensive driving course approved by the Secretary of State's Office.

"About 1.7 million senior citizens will be eligible for the insurance rate discount," Edgar said, "if they complete the National Society's Council's defensive driving course, or any other course meeting standards set by this office."

The amount of the discount will vary, Edgar said, based on the amount of coverage a driver has, the number of years driven per year, geographic location and other factors used to determine insurance rates.

Drivers required to take a defensive driving course following a traffic violation must maintain an accident-free record for twelve months to qualify for the remaining two years of the discount. All other drivers completing a course will be eligible for the discount for a three-year period.

Effective July 1, the penalty for any motorist convicted of violating a local ordinance prohibiting the passing of a school bus stopped to load or discharge passengers is a 30-day drivers license suspension.

The same penalty is imposed by the Secretary of State on any motorist passing a stopped school bus in violation of state law. The new statute merely extends the same penalty to the local ordinances.

An anatomical gift card printed on the back of Illinois drivers licenses and photo identification cards distributed by the Secretary of State's Office will now make it easier for Illinois citizens to sign up as potential organ donors.

"By giving the ultimate gift, organ donors save lives every year," Edgar said. "By publicizing the program and making the process of becoming an organ donor less complicated, we can hope to encourage more Illinoisans to participate."

Drivers license renewal notices will now include a pamphlet explaining the facts about organ donation. The new law requires the Secretary of State's Office to provide this information to all Illinois motorists.

Violations by 2 water units

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency alleged Thursday that two Madison County public water supplies have failed to adequately monitor the bacteriological quality of their water and also failed to notify their customers of this deficiency.

Public water supplies are required to notify customers through the mail within three months after failing to perform adequate monitoring.

If the water supply does not notify its customers within three months of such a violation, then the IEPA issues public notice.

These violations occurred during the February 1982 sampling period, a spokesman said.

The public water supplies that failed to adequately monitor the bacteriological quality of their water were the Cottonwood Mobile Home Park near St. Jacob and the Pierron, water supply.

"Failure to adequately monitor bacteriological quality could allow contamination to go undetected for extended periods of time. Bacterial contamination may indicate the presence of disease-producing organisms that could result in the outbreak of a waterborne disease," the spokesman said in stressing the value of monitoring water quality.

The Madison County Circuit Court ordered Friday afternoon that the first of two new property tax assessments be paid to township collectors in Granite City, Nameoki, Venice and Edwardsville.

County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus is to include in the tax bills notices that the first installment is to be paid to the four townships on property in their boundaries.

It was indicated at the court hearing that bills (1981 tax year for 1982 collection) may be ready for mailing by Thursday, Friday or next Monday.

There may be a squeeze on the time allowed for the local collection, since taxpayers have a month in which to respond. Real estate tax payments as of Sept. 1 will go to the county; second installments will be due well after that date.

The four townships named plan to collect and disburse tax funds to their local governmental agencies, including schools, cities and Collectors have been critical of Henkhaus' announced desire to collect all the taxes and retain them long enough to obtain interest for the county. They say that, while this is happening, local taxing bodies are forced to borrow funds at interest, for a net loss to the taxpayers.

Unexplainably, she ran to the pool located in the elder Milton's backyard and found the boy floating face down. The youngster had apparently climbed over a 48-inch fence then over the top of the pool before the accident occurred.

She pulled the boy from the water and took him into her father-in-law's home where a sister-in-law then telephoned the boy's uncle, Herbert Milton III, who was revived after being found by his mother, Belinda, in the four-foot pool.

The boy remains in critical, but stable, condition at St. Louis Children's Hospital. He was transferred there after being taken by Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. The youngster, who will be 2 years old on Wednesday, July 14, was taking his usual afternoon nap when his mother walked next door to the home of Herbert Milton Jr., Madison County Board member in District 22, and his father. She visited there for approximately 10 minutes then returned to her home to find the back door standing ajar.

As a handgun was fired against the street near their home, two youngsters were struck by fragments at 2:45 p.m. Sunday.

Brett Ybarra, four years old, was struck on the head behind the right ear and suffered some degree of penetration by a lead object, county authorities determined. However, he and his sister were released after treatment at the St. Elizabeth Medical Center emergency room.

The sister, Tina, seven years old, was struck in the left leg by a fragment. A spokesman for the Madison County sheriff said a man who identified himself as Robert "Shane" Matyas was charged with aggravated battery and was detained as the investigation continued.

The victims of the shooting told a relative, Cornelio Ybarra, 5217 Lakeview Drive, that a man had objected to them riding their bicycles in the street and began cursing them, deputies related.

The three then went outdoors and were in front of the residence, inquiring about the circumstances of the incident. The first of the shots followed, with bullets glancing upward from the street surface.

Among the survivors are four daughters, Mrs. Tony (Mary) Bellue, Mrs. Herbert (Trene) Wein, Mrs. Robert (Dolores) Feeble and Mrs. Jim (Nancy) Gray, all of Granite City; three sons, Louie and Leo Scaturro Sr., both of Granite City, and Donald Scaturro Sr., Venice; a brother, Luca Scaturro of St. Louis; two sisters, Mrs. Calagera Vinci and Mrs. Giralama Licata, both of Sambuca, Italy; 18 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Mass will be said at 10 a.m. Tuesday, July 13, at St. Mark Catholic Church, 849 E. 12th St., Venice, by the Rev. Elzear Gehlen. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery, Edwardsville Township.

Visitation is underway at Bob Thomas Memorial Mortuary, 2205 Pontoon Road, where the Rosary will be recited at 7 p.m. today.

At 5:45 a.m., a power pole was reported on fire at 2805 E. 24th St. Venice closed the Broadway underpass shortly after 2 p.m. Sunday due to the high water and damage to the road surface. The overpass was still closed this morning and may remain in that condition until the building or reaching the two transformers.

"All we had was a little water in the incinerator room. Very little entered the building," Sister Mary Thomas, S.E.M.C. administrator, explained. The water, which filled the loading dock "came up a crack in the asphalt. We don't know whether it was underground pressure or what. We are investigating it today," she added.

The water and electrical problems did not affect emergency operations or patients' rooms, it was noted.

The locks reported their power outage about 5 a.m. Saturday. The outage closed down operations until about 10 a.m., stalling cars along the locks.

The overpass was still closed this morning and may remain in that condition until the building or reaching the two transformers.

Take extra care against burglars if vacationing

By VALKRIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

Home burglaries in major U.S. cities in 1981 remained at the same high level as reported in 1980, according to preliminary FBI reports. On a national average, one burglary takes place every 15 seconds, day and night, law enforcement sources explain.

And the same situation holds true in Granite City. Police Chief Ronald J. Veizer said today in announcing "Burglary Prevention Month" and asking residents to take extra precautions during the summer vacation season.

Mayor Paul Schuler joins the police executive in seeking the support of all citizens to assist the police department in fighting home burglaries, especially when more families are on holiday and away from their residences.

"As a rule, burglaries and break-ins also show a substantial increase when the economy declines, and certainly that is the case today," Chief Veizer said.

Failure to practice the fundamental techniques of home protection was largely responsible for the 578 burglaries committed in Granite City last year.

Chief Veizer noted that most people didn't intentionally invite intruders to ransack their homes, but in many instances they might as well have hung up a sign, saying "No one's home, burglar welcome!" A stroll around one's own neighborhood any day of the week will tell at a glance who's away, he pointed out. "Porches will be cluttered with circulars, the lawn is unkempt and the mailbox is bulging. Frequently, the garage is empty and the door is left open."

"All of these situations are clear tip-offs, broadcasting the fact that 'no one's at home'—to anyone canvassing the neighborhood," Chief Veizer said.

The police executive offered several precautionary measures which should be followed by homeowners to reduce the chance of a burglary.

Close and lock all doors, including porch, basement and garage doors. Use a sturdy cylinder lock on outside entrances and safety latches on all windows.

Connect a lamp to a 24-hour "Time-A-Lite" automatic timer, set to turn lights in the home on and off each evening. Since sound, in addition to light, also is a deterrent, connect a radio or television to a timer device.

Protect all doors and windows with an inexpensive, portable burglary alarm, the type which sounds whenever someone attempts to break in.

Light up your porch and yard with outdoor lighting to increase the likelihood that an attempted burglary would be spotted by neighbors or passersby. Outside lights also can be timer-controlled, if desired, Chief Veizer said.

Be sure all screens are fastened from the inside. Never leave valuables laying around. Keep them in a safety deposit box.

Notify the police department when you will be leaving and how long you expect to be away. Special forms are available for residents going on vacation at police headquarters, 2330 Madison Ave.

Be sure to discontinue the newspaper or arrange to have it delivered to your vacation address and ask a neighbor, relative or the local post office to hold all mail until you return.

Make arrangements with a friend to mow the lawn and sweep the sidewalk once a week, asking him also to pick up any circulars or handbills that may be left on the porch.

Leave window shades or blinds as normally seen at the house. Closed blinds keep the sun out, but also make an effective screen for the burglar.

Never advertise your departure with an item in the newspaper. Wait until you return home, then call the paper with the information.

"There is no such thing as a 'burglar proof' home," the chief said.

He added, however, that by following the offered suggestions, greater protection will be afforded the home and one's personal possessions whenever the house is empty.

A new Illinois law, which went into effect in January 1982, makes a prison sentence mandatory for a residential burglary conviction and that sentence is a minimum of four years.

Previously, the law set three years as the minimum sentence for a conviction in residential burglary, and judges could also give probation.

Repeat offenders who are juveniles—anyone under age 17—can be certified by a judge as an adult and, as such, also would be affected by the new four-year minimum sentence, it was learned.

Smaller homes are being built

Some homebuilders are adjusting to affordability problems of first-time homebuyers by building smaller houses with fewer amenities, according to a new status report of the National Association of Realtors.

After a decade in which the median number of square feet of living space in new homes steadily increased, new homes built in the past three years have become smaller, Dr. Jack Carlson, said today. He is chief economist and executive vice-president of the NAR.

Median living area of new homes completed in 1981 was 1,550 square feet, 45 square feet less than in 1980 and 105 square feet smaller than those built in 1978.

The report was based on 1981 data just released by the Department of Commerce and the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Carlson said, "More new homes with just one bathroom are being built, while the proportion of homes with two or more bathrooms is slowly decreasing."

More homes are being built with two bedrooms or less. Last year, only 20 percent of new homes had four or more bedrooms.

"One amenity that is gaining popularity is central air-conditioning. Almost two-thirds of the homes built last year had central cooling units, up 11 percentage points since 1977."

"Over the past five years, more homes have been built that use gas, wood, coal and solar energy instead of oil."

Smaller, cost-efficient homes appear to have succeeded in attracting first-time homebuyers; 36 percent of all new single-family homes sold last year were bought by first-time buyers, a 6 percentage point increase since 1979.

"If the trend toward smaller homes with fewer amenities continues, the new home may replace existing homes as starter homes for an even larger number of homebuyers."

MHC awards scholarships

Robert Robles, vice president of the Mexican Honorary Commission, this week announced the awarding of educational grants to three local high school students.

The 1982 scholarship recipients are Wendy Robertson, Todd Goodrich and Diane Siler.

Robles said the Mexican Honorary Commission established the scholarship fund 12 years ago in memory of Joseph M. Gonzalez, a Granite City High School counselor and commission member, who was fatally injured in an automobile accident in June, 1970.

The fund is financed through donations to an annual scholarship dance.

Harking back, historian Thomas V. De Bacco of American University, Washington, D.C., says, "Prior to 1913, the federal government obtained revenues through the sale of lands and the imposition of tariffs and excise taxes on whiskey and tobacco. Often the biggest worry in Washington was how to dispose of the surplus derived from revenues."

sponsored by the commission, Robles explained. In the past 12 years, the fund has increased its scholarship grants from one each year to three, the officer noted.

"The Mexican Honorary Commission is very proud to help these young people get a start in their college careers," Robles stated.

Miss Robertson, a Granite City High School North graduate, will attend Belleville Area College this fall. "I am planning to study X-ray technology and, after completing this course, I hope to further my degree into the field of Nuclear Radiology," she said.

Goodrich, who graduated this year from Granite City High School South, was editor in chief of the 1982 Warrior yearbook. He was a member of the National Honor Society and president of the Quill and Scroll and Photography Club. He will attend Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, majoring in psychology.

Also a graduate of Granite City High School South, Miss Siler is enrolled at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, where she will start her college career this fall, working toward a degree in accounting. She is a member of the Mexican Honorary Commission.

Scholarship to Mary Koerper

Teacher Special Education Scholarships have been awarded to three recent graduates of Madison County High schools, including Mary Koerper of Granite City High School South (a 1981 graduate).

Seven applications were submitted by Harold E. Briggs, regional superintendent of schools of Madison County, to May of the Illinois State Board of Education. Out of 25 issued statewide under Section 30 of the Illinois School Code on the basis of ACT composite scores, three were issued to Madison County.

The recipients have been notified by Briggs. Applicants are required to certify they will train in the field of special education teaching and that they will teach in the schools of Illinois for at least two of the next three years, immediately following graduation.

Applicants not receiving scholarships at this time are still eligible if any of the scholarships are returned unused. The other recipients are Lisa Borgard of St. Paul, Highland, and Cindy Paul of Alton.

expressed concern that the quantity and quality of the sludge coming from the city to the landfill could jeopardize SCA's standing with the state's Environmental Protection Agency.

Although Slate disagrees that such a possibility exists, he said the amount of sludge reaching the landfill from the city has increased since the original contract was signed with SCA Services. Under a continuing contract, the city gave SCA Services exclusive right to trash collections in the Granite City area and, in return, agreed to allow residents and the city's wastewater treatment plant to use SCA landfill sites for disposal purposes. The contract expires in July, 1983. According to Terrance McMillan, sewage plant superintendent, the composition of the sludge coming from the plant is normal for this type of operation. He said that since the continuing order against SCA was issued last month, trucks hauling sludge have been entering SCA's East St. Louis landfill, but have been restricted to dumping from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day. He said the city has shown good faith to SCA by testing the quality of its sludge to insure it was not out of the ordinary acceptable range, but found nothing to warrant the concerns of the company. McMillan said he and the mayor have discussed what means the city might take to dispose of the sludge after the current contract expires. At that time, according to the city controller, SCA will begin charging for the type of raw primary sludge Granite City produces, which must either be burned or buried. An SCA Services representative said the company plans to issue a statement soon explaining the changes in the landfill procedures.

counts, $75,000 bond. Roxanne Howard, 27, of Edwardsville Road, seven, cocaine and valium, two counts, $100,000 bond. Charles Jaycox, 25, of Marigold Avenue, Granite City, cocaine, one count, $100,000 bond. Gary Phelps, 26, of Ponton Beach, cannabis and cocaine, two counts, $100,000 bond.

Kathleen Puryear, 31, Wyand, Ill., placid, one count, $50,000 bond. Sidwell, 26, no address given, cocaine and valium, two counts, $100,000 bond. Pamela K. Wallace, 18, of 1915 Edwardsville Road, cocaine, one count, $100,000 bond. And Cindy Doe, no age or address, LSD, one count, $50,000 bond. Including "Cindy Doe" and a Granite City juvenile girl, the overall list of suspects has increased to 45, authorities said.

The list of 36 indicted includes the 11 persons named above who are not in custody, plus 25 of the persons taken into custody in the Quad-City area Wednesday. A 26th arrested that day has not been indicted.

The difference between the 36 indictments and the grand total of 45 suspects is accounted for by a group of seven persons being sought but not yet publicly named, plus one person who has not been indicted, plus Thomas Louis Hogue, 35, of 915a Niedringhaus Ave. Arrested by Granite City police at Niedringhaus Avenue and Chestnut Street on a charge of petty theft, Hogue later was transferred to the Madison County jail.

The 25 persons arrested here on drug charges and then named in indictments follow.

Held on bonds totaling $1 million each were Leon Sanasarian, 49, of 1724 Spruce St. and Michael J. Shambo, 34, of Apartment 3 at 4033 Gaslight Walk, Ponton Beach, each named in four counts of unlawful delivery of a controlled substance.

The two were charged with distributing morphine and cocaine. Sanasarian was alleged to have sold $10,000 worth and Shambo to have sold $8,250 worth.

Cannabis delivery was alleged against Debra F. Martin, 25, of Granite City, $100 sale, $50,000 bond, and Garvin A. Butler, 29, of 3801 Lake Drive, Ponton Beach, $75,000 bond.

Among the charges of alleged delivery of controlled substances, three counts were filed against: Ulas "King" Davis, 25, of 15 Lee Wright Homes, Venice, benzphetamine, sales amounting to $134, $120 and $90, with a $150,000 bond required; Linda K. Lumpkins, 34, of Apt. 8 at 2530 Parkview Drive, benzphetamine, $150,000 bond; and Mrs. Claudine M. Maxwell, 55, of 2038 Sken St., Madison, dilaudid, $1,950 sale, $300,000 bond.

Two controlled substance delivery counts were lodged against each of the following:

Among those involved in the massive investigation were the Granite City police department, the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois, the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation, the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration, the Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, the Midwest Organized Crime Information Center, the Madison County sheriff's department and the Illinois State Police.

Fourteen four-man teams assembled at the Granite City police building July 7 to begin the round-up of alleged drug dealers. The 42 warrants issued that morning by Circuit Judge A. A. Matosian were based on more than 80 exhibits prepared by drug enforcement officials.

The investigation was conducted around-the-clock from Jan. 2 to July 7, utilizing videotaping and also electronic eavesdropping. Cross-certifying prosecutors so that cases can be handled at either the federal court or Illinois circuit court were State's Attorney Don W. Weber and U.S. Attorney Frederick Hess.

Weber commented, "Both Rick Hess and I applaud the close cooperation and teamwork shown by agencies of the federal and state governments. This investigation marks a new beginning in the fight against illicit drug trafficking in our area."

"Differences between federal and state agencies which have sometimes hindered law enforcement in the past have been replaced by mutual assistance."

DOWN THE MIDDLE. A motorist passes a Bi-State bus Saturday morning after the bus attempted to pass through the flooded Venice underpass Saturday morning by driving over the middle of the concrete median. The bus eventually bottomed out and got hung up. The underpass, only partially open last week due to the sinking roadway caused by the high water table, was completely closed for repairs Sunday afternoon and may be closed for months. Traffic is being detoured north on Route 3, then east on Bissell Avenue and back to Broadway via Klein Street. More than a dozen cars stalled earlier Saturday morning while trying to make it through the high waters at the underpass.

More drug arrests

in Edwardsville Wednesday morning, but was halted when arrests were started and officials feared that suspects would hear of the operation and leave the area.

Heroin, cocaine, LSD, quaaludes, methamphetamine, barbiturates and marijuana were some of the drugs involved in the "sting" operation.

Suspects used a route including Missouri, Indiana and Illinois as well as utilizing sources from Mexico and Texas.

Nichols said that many of the drugs involved were "legitimate pharmaceutical products," rather than manufactured chemicals. He did say that some of the methamphetamine was manufactured in an illegal laboratory, but not in this area.

Legitimate pharmaceuticals were obtained from a doctor and then sold illegally, Nichols contended.

Ron Grimming, area commander for the Illinois Department of Criminal Investigation, refused to comment whether any doctors have been guilty of criminal actions involving drugs.

Grimming also refused to explain the videotaping process, except to say that equipment often was moved from place to place. Law enforcement officials believe the videotaping was successful and plan to utilize it again, he said.

A surveillance mirror was used in a Granite City apartment to record evidence against suspects, it was explained. Officials declined to discuss the location of the apartment.

Weber predicts that most suspects arrested will admit their guilt and forego trials because the evidence against them is so strong. "There's a time to go to trial and a time to give up," he said.

Undercover police purchased about $40,000 worth of various drugs with the largest transaction involving about $4,300 for cocaine.

U.S. Attorney Frederick Hess will seek federal charges, which could be more severe, against some suspects, Weber said. Weber pledged that charges will not be dropped during plea negotiations to avoid prison terms against any suspects.

For suspects who do not come forth and admit their guilt, which Weber seems to believe most will, the judicial process will take only two days to complete. "A day to pick the jury and a day to convict," he predicted.

Nichols said that the investigators soon will be busy again catching the next group which takes over for those indicted. In four or five months, somebody else steps in to deal drugs, particularly in the cocaine trade, Weber said. Someday, he contended, law enforcement officials will make their point.

"They'll realize they can make a good salary one year in this (drug) business and spend the next 10 years in jail. Maybe this time we've made our point."

A Sports Special

Laszlo Szeles' two loves: soccer and America
Hungarian flees Russian occupationBy ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

Kisvarda, Hungary didn't have organized soccer for boys under 12 years old when Laszlo Szeles lived in the town near the Hungarian border with the Soviet Union.

Laszlo was seven or eight years old when he began playing soccer. He was still five years away from playing on a team with a coach, but he learned the basics of soccer on the streets of Kisvarda.

He played soccer every day with boys from the neighborhood. Few boys were able to afford soccer balls during the days before the start of World War II, so Laszlo and his friends used what was available. Often, that meant playing soccer with a tennis ball.

Playing soccer with a tennis ball developed Laszlo's quickness and accuracy, and he easily made the jump to soccer in his town. Eventually, he would be named to regional select teams.

He was, and still is, intelligent. Only the best students could attend eight years of high school in the Hungarian school system. Everyone else had to go to trade school. Laszlo attended high school.

Laszlo had two goals as a boy — to play for the Hungarian national team, and to become a doctor.

Today, Laszlo Szeles is 12,000 miles from the street on which he played soccer with a tennis ball. He never joined the Hungarian national team or became a doctor.

Szeles could have been a successful soccer player in Hungary. He could have been a doctor. He would not have been free.

Instead, Szeles traded his childhood dreams for freedom. Laszlo knew he made the right decision.

"The most important thing for me is freedom," Szeles said. "I could have stayed in Hungary and had a much better job than I do here, but I wouldn't have any freedom. You don't mind the work if you're free."

Szeles works on the furnace crew at Granite City Steel, a far cry from the profession he was trained to pursue. Although he never played on any of Europe's top soccer teams, he still made soccer an important part of his life.

Laszlo helped create the YMCA youth soccer league in 1960 and has been a coach ever since. He taught many of Granite City's top soccer players the fundamentals of soccer and the fundamentals of success.

His sons Steve and Robert played soccer at Granite City North and are attending top universities. Steve graduated from Dartmouth University and is studying to be a heart surgeon at Washington University. Robert attended Rhode Island University last year, but is transferring to Washington to study fine arts.

The youngest son, Michael, is still in elementary school, but he already knows what he wants to do when he grows up — either play soccer or be a doctor.

In short, Szeles found paradise in Granite City.

"The people here have freedom and the highest standard of living," Szeles said. "This is paradise compared to other nations. It's a good feeling to have and express your own opinion without having to worry about someone else arresting you."

The Soviet Union installed a Communist government in Hungary immediately after the war ended. Laszlo's father was a shoemaker in Kisvarda and owned a small shop. His father lost the business after the Communist takeover.

"He lost his license for his own shop and had to go into a collective. He worked for the government, and the government sold all the goods," Szeles said.

To win over the lower-class Hungarian farmers, the government broke up the big farms and divided the farms among all the farmers. However, the poorer farmers couldn't farm the land efficiently because they didn't have tractors.

Those farmers who did not farm the land to the government's standards were forced to leave.

"Some farmers simply signed over the land to the government. Those who didn't were beat up until they signed the land over," Laszlo's wife, Elona, said.

The government's treatment of the farmers' complaints to give the Szeles family a low opinion of the Soviet Union. "Everything is done to suit the Russians. To me, a Communist signature is a big zero," Elona said.

"You can't trust anything they say," Laszlo said. "I laughed when they signed the arm treaty (SALT) because I knew they wouldn't obey the treaty."

Conditions in Hungary deteriorated until the people revolted against the Communist government. Laszlo was

"The people here have freedom and the highest standard of living. This is paradise compared to other nations. It's a good feeling to have and express your own opinion without having to worry about someone else arresting you."

active in the revolution even though he worked as a lab technician and had some privileges because he played for a second division soccer team.

(A second division soccer team is equivalent to a Class AAA team in professional baseball. First division soccer is the most important division.) Laszlo was able to get the secretaries in the office to unlock the room to the copying machine so he could publish leaflets informing other nations of the revolution.

The revolution was short. The Russians stormed Hungary and put the Communist Party back into control.

There was only one choice for Laszlo and Elona. They had to leave Hungary. The government was aware of Laszlo's activities, and he faced certain imprisonment or death if he was caught.

Laszlo, Elona, who was seven months pregnant, and some friends left Kisvarda forever Dec. 10, 1956. They arrived in Budapest, the capital of Hungary, and boarded a train for Sopron, Hungary, which was less than 10 miles from the Austrian border.

In order to enter the buffer zone which extended 30 miles east from the border, a person had to have a special government pass. Laszlo filled out six falsified passes.

Laszlo and the others were sent to a farmhouse near Sopron. They were told to stay until a guide came to show them the way to Austria. Laszlo said his heart was in his throat when he saw two Hungarian guards enter the house. Laszlo thought everything was all over for them.

As it turned out, the guards gave the guide information on when the Soviets would be guarding the border.

Laszlo was supposed to start the walk to Austria at 10 p.m., but freezing rains prevented them from leaving until 1 a.m. the next day.

The group had to walk across a frozen, and it was feared the guards would hear the group.

Laszlo had to carry a son one of his friends, and the boys were given sleeping pills to keep them from making noise. At 4:30 a.m., the group reached the Austrian border. In order to cross, the group had to walk across a 16-inch irrigation canal dam. The six held on to each other tightly and managed to enter Austria safely.

The group finished the seven-mile walk to freedom at Deutschkreutz, Austria. From there, the Hungarian refugees were sent to a camp near Vienna and later sent to another camp in Salzburg, Austria.

The Szeles' first child died, but the couple was sent to Munich, West Germany, and to Glasgow, Scotland, before moving to the United States.

The Szeles arrived in New Jersey and moved to St. Louis because they thought it was near the center of the country.

A Presbyterian minister in Kirkwood, Mo., took the Szeles in temporarily, and Jim Dory, an employee of Pepsi Co., sponsored them at his home in Louisiana. Mo. on March 18.

The couple moved to East St. Louis. Two months later, the Szeles rented a house on Madison Ave. in Granite City.

There are many similarities between Szeles' personal experiences and his coaching and parenting philosophy.

Szeles believes in dedication to goals. Most of his players tell him they want to be soccer players when they grow up. He also believes that a good education is important, and he stresses that point to his players. His sons receive the same advice.

"What I'd like to see is that they do better than I did," Szeles said about his sons. "You have to set goals, and if you work at those goals, you can achieve them. It will take a lot of sacrifice and lots of discipline to do it though."

Szeles is a stickler on teamwork. He wouldn't be in Granite City today had it not been for teamwork. It isn't often that teamwork is a life or death matter, but in soccer, teamwork means the difference between winning and losing.

He also stresses sportsmanship, and he hopes that sportsmanship and goodwill spreads beyond the soccer field.

Szeles has coached up to four teams in one season. One team would be a challenge for most people.

"It's lots of work to coach. Sometimes it's a problem because it takes a lot of time to get a team ready for a cup game," Szeles said.

The hard work has paid off. Many of his teams have won state championships and various tournaments. Many of his players have succeeded in high school and college soccer.

Granite City youth soccer has been a part of Szeles' life for 21 years. The early soccer were challenging because many youth had not been exposed to soccer.

Laszlo Szeles

"We had to show some of the other men how to coach soccer at first. We had to get kids who came out for soccer to get their friends out, and it grew," Szeles said.

Soccer is a major part of the Szeles household. One Sunday, the family watched the World Cup Soccer match between Italy and West Germany. The Szeles family all rooted for the Italians to win.

"They're the best team of the two because they beat Brazil and Argentina. They pass the ball well and work for the good shot," Szeles said.

Watching a soccer game with the Szeles is an education experienced for those ignorant of soccer. All of the Szeles pointed out the rough play of the West Germans and believed yellow cards should have been given.

The Szeles appreciated the passing game of the Italians, and the whole house erupted in cheers when the Italians scored their three goals.

The Szeles were forced to watch the ABC commentary of the game because their cable system went out. They were irritated the number of commercials the network aired.

"I'm going to watch the game on cable if they replay it. You can't watch a soccer game if they run a lot of commercials because you miss the flow of the game," Szeles said.

Szeles would love to see unity in soccer. He believes there is too much fighting between each other at the local, county, state and national levels.

Szeles would like to see one organization in charge of all the soccer in Granite City, and he wants the city to have a soccer complex.

"They fight over their own power and waste a lot of energy," Szeles said. "They usually argue about something besides the pure honest of the sport."

"Both Granite City high schools have excellent soccer and excellent coaching, but we don't have a soccer complex. We have fields at St. Elizabeth's and at the Depot, but you never know where you're going to play game to game. All of the organizations should join into one and get started on ideas for a complex," he said.

Unity is a problem at the national level, Szeles said. He feels the United States has the talent for a World Cup or Olympic contention, but internal fighting for power have prevented this country from having a good team.

"We just have to get everyone should join together and fight for power inside the organizations and get a strong program going," he said.

"The most important thing to me is freedom. I could have stayed in Hungary and had a much better job than I do here, but I wouldn't have any freedom. You don't mind the work if you're free."

Junior legionnaires split pair

As is often the case in professional baseball, the long ball decides the outcome of a contest. Such was the case Friday when the Granite City Legionnaires (North County League) fell to Burger Chef 7-3.

With Granite City leading 3-2 going into the sixth inning, Burger Chef's Greg Wehmer pounded a homer to deep center field to give his team a 4-3 lead.

With the absence of a fence, Wehmer was to third base before Granite City's Terry Rujawitz even reached the ball.

The hit, which was probably went every bit of 400 feet, broke the back of Granite City players, as they were unable to muster any offensive afterwards.

Granite City's North County record drops to 7-6 on the season.

Granite City's Jim Fletcher pitched an outstanding game for five and two-thirds innings before he was relieved by Dan Whitsell following the Wehmer belted the four bagger. Fletcher struck out five and only walked two before Whitsell entered.

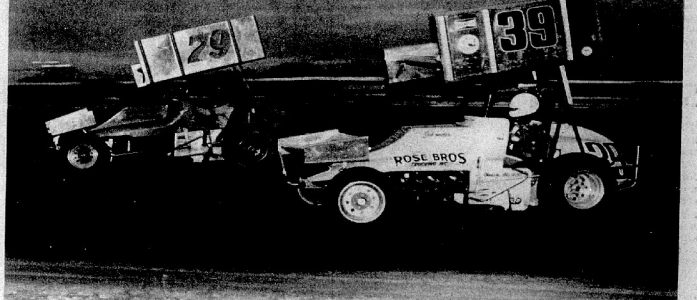

Burger Chef managed the victory on seven hits, while their Granite City adversaries managed three runs on just two hits. Whitsell managed both of Granite City's hits: a double in the second and a single in the fourth. All of Granite City's runs were scored by baserunners who either reached on a walk or who had been hit by a pitch.

The previous evening, Thursday, Granite City and St. Charles battled in extra innings before the hometown boys won that contest 1-0.

In the bottom of the ninth Whitsell, who also pitched for Granite City, reached on a walk. Rujawitz sacrificed Whitsell to second and then Ron Dallas singled to scored Whitsell.

This evening, Granite City takes on Florissant at Granite City South's Varsity Field. Action begins at 6 p.m.

SUPER SPRINTS. Bob Kommerer, 79, and Ken Schrader, 39, typify the quality of competition at Tri-City Speedway in the Super Sprint car division. The popular competition comes again to Tri-City this Wednesday evening. Gates open at 6 p.m. Racing begins at 7:30 p.m.

GC merchants sponsor 10,000 m run

Runners may enter one of nine categories and each category will have first, second and third prize winners. First place winners will be awarded medallions and running shoes and other winners will receive medallions. All awards to be presented by Granite City Mayor Paul Schulz.

Approximately 500 participants are expected and each will receive a commemorative T-shirt.

Entry blanks may be obtained at participating merchants in Crossroads Plaza and Nameoki Village. Completed entry forms should be sent along with a $4 registration fee to NCA, P.O. Box 1027, Granite City, Illinois 62040. Late registration fee on the day of the race is $5.

Categories in the men's division are age 50 and over, 40-49, 30-39, 19-29, and 18 and under.

In the women's division categories are the same, although there is not a separate category for 50 and over.

Alton's costly errors lift Tri-City to 11-2 victory

By ROGER KRAMER

ALTON — Sometimes, only one error is needed to blow a baseball game wide open. Tri-City American Legion proved that Saturday in its 11-2 District 22 victory over Alton.

The fatal mistake came in the fourth inning. Tri-City's Daren DePew walked to open the inning. Joe Schnefke hit a hard line drive towards second baseman Jeff Juhlin. The ball was hit hard enough to make DePew break for second, but Juhlin caught the ball and had a double play in the works.

DePew had to quickly turn back towards first, but the Triplet catcher slipped. With a perfect throw, Juhlin would have thrown DePew out by yards.

Juhlin's throw was perfect, but Alton first baseman Brett Underwood dropped the throw. DePew regained his footing and returned to first safely.

From there, Alton's luck turned bad. George Jarvis walked and Jim Mouldin followed with a single which brought DePew home. Jarvis scored on a wild pitch, and Tri-City led 3-1.

"That dropped throw opened the floodgates," Alton manager Lesie Hopkins said. "These are 17-18 year old boys, and this was simply one of those ball games."

Alton's errors continued, and Tri-City created its own breaks as well.

Tri-City added a run in the fifth when Rick Daily singled and scored on a sacrifice fly by Joe Schnefke.

Errors and other miscues allowed Tri-City to score four times in the sixth inning. Alton pitcher George Stupperich walked both Mouldin and Mill Rice to open the inning. Brad Jun looked over for Alton, and Tri-City's Rick Buer reeling him with a single.

Legion Baseball

Mouldin scored on a passed ball, and Danny Patterson hit a single to score Roe and an error on the play allowed Buer to score. Patterson scored on another error to Tri-City's fourth run.

Tri-City added three more runs in the seventh. Mouldin walked, Buer hit a single, and Patterson hit a double to drive both runners home. Patterson scored on Daily's single.

"We just did everything right," Tri-City manager Al Yount said. "We got the hits at the right times, and we made some good defensive plays too."

A heavy rain early Saturday caused the field to be wet and muddy and caused the start of the game to be pushed back two hours to 6 p.m. The field contributed to hits for both teams, but had no outcome on the game.

"You couldn't blame the field for the way we played today," Hopkins said. "The only bad breaks caused by the field came to Granite City."

"Granite City played a good game. They are a much better team than their record shows. They've got a lot of games left and they could come back."

Indeed, Tri-City has a large work load ahead this week. Beginning Tuesday, the Triplets will play five straight days. Tri-City travels to Fairview Heights Tuesday and East Alton Wednesday for two 6 p.m. games. The Triplets play at Edwardsville Thursday, host Marissa Friday, and travel to Collinsville Saturday.

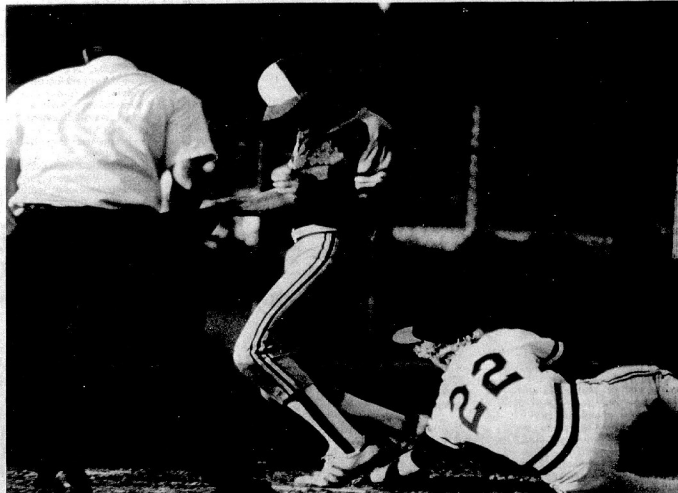

Tri-City still has a chance to come in second or third and avoid the District 22 North Division single elimination playoffs for the fourth place spot. If the Triplets come in fourth place or lower, they will have to play in the single elimination playoffs.

Tri-City's other run came in the third inning. Mouldin reached on an error and scored on John Linhart's single. Schnefke was the winning pitcher for Tri-City. He gave up five hits.

"Joe pitched a good game. He had pretty good control most of the time," Yount said.

Glen Carbon drops two, now 3-12 on season

The Glen Carbon American Legion baseball team will play its last regularly scheduled game tonight. The team might be breathing a collective sigh of relief that the season is only hours away from being over.

With two losses, one Friday and one yesterday, the team's record is 3-12. But the last several games have been extremely close and the quality of Glen Carbon's baseball much improved. The team dropped a game to East Alton 6-5 Friday and lost yesterday to Bethalto 7-6.

Yesterday, Glen Carbon was a strike away from winning the game. In the seventh, pitcher Paul Barrington faced a two out, nobody on situation when Bethalto batters turned loose and came back from a 6-0 deficit to win the game. Barrington pitched over six innings "rather well," Larry Corey, Glen Carbon coach said.

Vince Mitchell, who usually catches for Glen Carbon, was the starting pitcher Friday. Paul Barrington came in to relieve him in the third and pitched four scoreless innings.

Glen Carbon had a 6-4 lead and only one error in the game, but could not hold East Alton through seven innings. Designated hitter Mike Eaves brought in three runs during the game, two in the second on a double. Scott Corey doubled in two during that inning. East Alton, however, came back and out hit Glen Carbon.

Before the East Alton and Bethalto games, Glen Carbon dropped a close one to St. Louis 3-1 in eight innings. "All three teams are pretty good," Corey said.

Glen Carbon's play at Edwardsville this evening at Granite City High School North. Action begins at 6 p.m.

Civics win fifth straight, now 18-13-1

CAPE GIRARDEAU

The Southwest Illinois Civics baseball team ran their winning streak to five in a row by sweeping both ends of a doubleheader here Sunday, winning the first one 8-6 and the night cap 11-7.

The Civics trotted out and awesome parade as they blasted two homers in the opener and three in the night cap.

Rusty Hilgenkamp and Tim Gamble hit the pair of home runs in the opener.

In the second game Hilgenkamp came back with another four bagger and Tim Gamble hit a two-run homer.

Wehrend each blasted solo homers. However, the individual batting star for the Civics was Edwardsville's Bill Stollen who went five of seven with six RBIs in addition to stealing five bases.

The winner of the first game for the Civics was Tim Rakers while the winner in the night cap was Civics hurler Vince Broderick. Broderick is now 5-1.

Tomorrow night the Civics will get a chance to avenge their losses on their 18-13-1 season when Red Oak, Iowa comes calling at Edwardsville's Hoppe Park.

The first game starts at 6 p.m. Thursday the Civics will play another "home game" at Granite City South's Varsity Field when they entertain Waterloo, a second place team in the Mt. Clair League.

Sisters named tournament's MVP's

The Illinois Amateur Softball Association's third annual Class A State Women's Slow Pitch Tournament had an exciting surprise this weekend.

Debbie and Linda Rakers, sisters from Pocahtons, Ill., were both named the most valuable players. They played on the championship team, Lanjos.

"A tournament committee and a few umpires usually title one player as most valuable, but the Rakers were both such excellent players that we decided to pick two. They really were the spark plugs of their team," said Raymond Hoffman, assistant vice president of the Illinois

Amateur Softball Association.

In the championship game Debbie had a home run and a triple while Linda led a triple and two singles. Lanjos defeated Country Spot, from Old Ripley, 7-0.

The second place team is Country Spot, the third place team is Elkettes from East Peoria, Ill., and the fourth place team is the Bank of Evansville from Evansville, Ill.

Lanjos and Country Spot will advance to the Midwest Regionals in Fort Wayne, Ind., August 21 and 22. The winner and runner up of the regionals will advance to the National Tournament in Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 3, 4, 5.

and 6.

"The Granite City Merchants tied for seventh place. They were the highest placed team from Granite City," said Hoffman.

There were 32 teams total and seven from Granite City. All games were played at Wilson Park. This is the first

Sports of all Sorts

Thank God for umpires

By AL BARNES

There are many unsung heroes in sports. Probably the most abused are those men and women . . . who umpire our games, amateur and professional.

This little opus is about two local baseball umpires, Andrew (Andy) Timko, 63, and Charlie Horton, 46. Both are absolutely fearless, honest to a fault and men who love the sport they are both most active in . . . baseball.

One can argue or find fault with either of their "calls" in the baseball games they umpire, but never is there ever a question of them being biased, or favoring a team.

They, as they say, "Call them like they are."

And, sometime, the funny thing is, that they could avoid a lot of verbal abuse by making a "say," "neutral call."

Horton, a native of Madison, kind of slipped into the profession of arbitrating . . . after a career as a amateur pitcher for the outstanding Brooklyn Robins of the Tandy League and then as manager of the Robins in 1966 and 1967. He was highly successful in both jobs.

Over two years on the mound he posted a .500 record in the Tandy League, which then was equal to Double (AA) League or baseball, and then directing the Robins to two runners-up finishes. His best product as manager of the Robins was Wendell Johnson, a sensational hurler for the McKendree College Bears, and who just finished an outstanding career as basketball coach at Lebanon, Ill., High School over a three-year period. Timko

Horton

Cougar Field, Southern Illinois U. at Edwardsville. He has been umpiring college level and semi-pro baseball and fast and slowpitch softball games in this area for the past 14 years. He's a member of the Southwestern Illinois Umpires' Association as is Timko.

Timko, a produce manager at Schermer Brothers Market for many years, has strong opinions about how an umpire should conduct himself during a game. "We have to keep control, number one. But, probably the most important thing is the teamwork between a two-man team of umpires. We have to protect each other. A good team is made up of men who know how to help the other man out in a difficult call. When you can't see the play, one must instantly seek help from his buddy. And, that buddy must be prepared at all times to my aid."

Andy was asked: "If you are Umpire in Chief, will you overrule a colleague's call at first base if . . . and we stress that 'if' . . . your partner has obviously blown the call?"

Without a second's hesitation, he answers: "No, I wouldn't because that's the way he saw it. There can be no other way to do it."

There are many fans in the area who, jokingly say, for sure, that Andy has never, in his mind, made a wrong call.

Timko has strong opinions on who the best softball players are, now and in the past, here in the Tri-City area; Max Legate, now deceased, leads the group followed by Junior Poole, Al Mance, Nellie Hagnauer, Sam Whitmer and Von Dene Cruse.

As a sports reporter for the past 50 years, I have had my doubts about the sanity of two classes of men: Coaches and umpires.

First, a man has to be some kind of nut to be a coach where he week after week, month after month and year after year puts his future and that of his family in the hands of young men. The same is true of the umpire or referee. And, the hazzle both of them take is something else again.

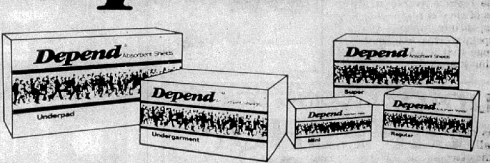

I'm eternally grateful to them for caring enough about the various sports and the young people involved in them to go on calling them "like we see them."

Without these men and their cohorts I would never have had the job I've enjoyed so much down through the years. And, equally so, the public would not have had the fun watching their teams play.

Thanks, Andy and Charlie! We all owe so much to you and your colleagues.

Keep up the good work!

Totten-Robertson

Miss Robin Lynn Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Robertson, 2336 O'Hare Ave., became the bride of Steven Wayne Totten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde R. Totten Sr., 2010 Walnut St., Alton, in an evening ceremony on June 19 at St. John's United Church of Christ.

The Rev. Sheldon Culver officiated the 6:30 p.m. service, followed by a reception at Croation Home in Madison.

Nuptial selections, "Sunrise Sunset" and "The Wedding Song" were provided by soloist and guitarist Richard Barbaud and The Lord's Prayer and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desire" were sung by Jay Stemley accompanied by organist Alan Milster.

For her wedding, the former Miss Robertson chose a white Victorian style gown trimmed with Charly lace, designed with a fitted bodice and high neckline. Venice lace accented the collar and yoke and the sheer bishop style sleeves were enhanced with tiny daisies and sequins.

Her chiffon skirt extended into a chapel length train. She wore a catol cap to secure her veil of bridal illusion and carried a cascade of roses, white shephard, miniature white and aqua carnations and baby's breath.

Karen Strohmeier was maid of honor and Mary Dollins and Beth Freyer served as bridesmaids.

Each attendant was attired in an aqua chiffon gown with a blouson bodice and oval neckline. They carried bouquets of miniature white and aqua carnations, white and yellow daisies and blue straw flowers with loops of white ribbon and baby's breath.

The groom chose Dennis Scherrer as best man, Kenneth Schuppan and Derek Robertson, brother of the bride, were groomsmen. Melanie Gosnell, a cousin of the bride, and Eric Totten, the groom's nephew, served as the flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

Seating the guests were Clyde R. and David Totten, brothers of the groom. Candelighters were Lynn Jenkins and Carol Griffith.

For her son's wedding, Mrs. Totten selected a mint colored gown complemented with a capelet.

The mother of the bride wore an orchid handkerchief style gown with a matching cape.

The former Miss Robertson is a 1977 graduate from Granite City High School South and is a senior at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, where she is majoring in computer science. She is currently employed as a CO-OP computer programmer at the Monsanto Company in Sauget.

The groom graduated from Alton Senior High School in 1975 and is a 1980 graduate from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He is presently employed at Defense Mapping Agency as a cartographer and also is a musician in the Don Scherrer Biggie Band.

The newly married couple are residing in Granite City.

Anchorage seniors

Mrs. Augusta Lampe, president of Anchorage Senior Citizen Club, read a communication from Secretary of State Jim Edgar noting that beginning July 1 those under age 69 will not have to take a written drivers test if they have a good driving record.

Anyone over the age 69 will be required to take the test even if they have a good driving record, she explained.

Mrs. Lampe said that 96 percent of the older drivers are safe drivers and therefore she feels this new ruling is discriminating against those over 69. She will prepare a petition to be signed at the next meeting and forward it to the secretary of the state noting the members disapproval.

The meeting opened with the Lord's Prayer and pledge of allegiance repeated in unison by 52 members. Reports were given by Johanna Jerrels, secretary and Vivian Mitchell treasurer. Mrs. Mary Ahlvers, vice-president and sunshine chairman, reported on the cards sent to members and those listed as being ill.

Mrs. Ahlvers presided at the piano and played Happy Birthday to eight members observing their birthdate this month. The honorees provided cakes for the event.

The remainder of the day was spent in playing games and prizes were awarded to Evelyn Morgan, Abner Branding, Edna Ishum, Louise Orr, Catherine Collegen, Rose Zotti, Mary Quilligan, Vi Scrivner, Lillian Backs and Clara Harrison.

Illinois scene of 5 major new films

Despite the fact that Variety reports 1982 feature film production by major Hollywood production companies is running 32 percent below the same time a year ago, Governor James R. Thompson smilingly reports that Illinois is experiencing the hottest summer ever in filming activity.

"A television movie-of-the-week began filming in mid-June, and portions or all of four feature films are starting in July," Thompson said.

"Between June and September, these five productions will spend an estimated $12 million to $13 million cash in Illinois and will generate close to 4,000 local jobs."

"The Illinois Film Office, the arm of state government that sells this industry on working in Illinois, is also working on a number of other productions tentatively scheduled to start in August and September," he said.

"A CHANGE OF HEART," a CBS Entertainment two-hour movie-of-the-week, began filming June 14 entirely in Chicago. The production stars Kate Jackson and Tim Matheson. Director is Don Taylor.

"RISKY BUSINESS," a Tisch-Avnet Production, Geffen Film Company presentation to be distributed by Warner Bros., began filming July 7 at locations in Skokie and the North Shore and in Chicago. Producers are John Avnet and Steve Tisch. Director Paul Brickman is a native of Highland Park, Ill.

"EASY MONEY," Paper Clip Productions, Inc., for Filmways release starring Rodney Dangerfield, begins filming July 19. Joe Sedelmaier, Chicago award-winning commercial director, will direct. Producer is Chuck Mulvehill.

Both of these feature films will shoot entirely in Illinois. Portions of "DOCTOR DETROIT," a Universal Studios Production feature starring Dan Aykroyd, will be filmed in Chicago area.

Producer is Robert K. Weiss; director is Michael Pressman.

"BAD BOYS," an EMI Films presentation of a Robert Soló production, which shut down production in June due to the injury of its star, Sean Penn, will resume the remainder of its eight-week filming schedule in mid-July in a two-story jail set, constructed by the production company at the National Guard Naval Armory in downtown Chicago.

Peter B. Fox, director of the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, of which the Illinois Film Office is a division, said, "We see movie and television production on location in Illinois as an increasingly important part of the economy of the state."

"These productions bring in millions of new dollars and provide jobs for the talented local people in this industry here."

"Illinois, through the Illinois Film Office, has supported and encouraged this industry for many years. And we will continue to aggressively support and encourage it in the future," he said.

Why such an explosion of movies now? Lucy Salenger, director of the Illinois Film Office, said, "I think it is because we have developed an excellent working environment in Illinois."

"We have extraordinary cooperation from Gov. Thompson's office, from the mayor's film office headed by Sgt. Sam Babish, and from our office."

"Also, our unions are willing to go the extra step to get this business," she said. "Production companies can come here and hire entirely local crews who are professional and experienced, as well as do all their casting from talented and diversified local actors and actresses."

"This is in fact the case with A Change of Heart, Risky Business, Easy Money and Bad Boys. The crews and the talent for all these pictures are made up of

Seminar on alcoholism myths, facts Wednesday

The Myths and Facts of Alcoholism, a seminar to help the general public understand the problems and the disease, is scheduled Wednesday at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Alcoholism is a disease, not a social stigma, according to Dr. Frank Woodson, SIUE Health Service physician, who will lead the session. "We don't know what causes it and we cannot cure it, but we can control it much like we can diabetes and other diseases," he said.

Dr. Woodson, who has had special training at the Institute of Alcohol Studies at Rutgers University, in New Jersey, also serves on the St. Louis Board of the National Council on Alcoholism and is a consultant to various treatment centers.

He calls alcoholism one of the nation's major problems because it affects so many areas of so many lives—from crime and traffic accidents to family life and economic production.

"Alcoholism cost $50 billion last year. It is also one of the biggest killers, causing almost as many deaths as the leading diseases," he comments.

Dr. Woodson plans to handle a number of myths, including the idea that beer drinkers cannot be alcoholics. He will also discuss a double standard that often keeps alcoholic women hidden and away from treatment centers.

In order to control the disease, an alcoholic must restructure his lifestyle, and that is harder than just stopping drinking, he notes.

"He feels isolated, and that is when Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) can help. An educated public can also help," Dr. Woodson believes.

"Alcoholism has a high recidivism rate, but so does diabetes.

"Statistically, less than 50 percent of new AA members make it the first time, but the stability rate is 60 to 70 percent over a lifetime.

"It's a matter of learning to handle the emotions and living by the rules. Few who go to AA regularly start to drink again," he said.

Dr. Woodson will speak from 11:30 to 12:30 in the International Room of the University Center, sponsored by University Health Service.

The seminar is free and open to the public as part of the university's open program on alcoholism awareness. For more information, interested persons may contact University Health Service at 692-2942.

State Fair booths sold out

Space rental for the 1982 Illinois State Fair concession stands and exhibit booths is sold out.

Although the contract deadline was July 1, space was sold out several weeks earlier. Marilyn Rane, assistant space rental manager, said other names are being placed on a waiting list.

"We have people on a waiting list in case space opens up but it is a long list. People are surprised when they find out. Most people wait until the warm weather begins to check on space," Rane said.

Three hundred sixty-seven contracts were written for concessions space for 1982 and 125 contracts for exhibits were issued.

Applications for space rental at the 1983 Illinois State Fair will be accepted beginning in September, 1982.

AWARD RECIPIENT. Elizabeth Stark, right, receives the Silver Award, which is the highest award in Cadette Girl Scouting, from Mrs. Diane Kinder, leader of Cadette Girl Scout Troop 328. The presentation followed the troop's visit to the Chicago area.

Cadettes tour Chicago

Seventeen Girl Scouts of Cadette-Senior Troop 328 have returned from a 5-day trip to Chicago. The girls earned the money for the trip through the annual cookie sale and a chili supper and auction.

Working on their travel interest project, the girls tried several methods of transportation. The Amtrak "Eagle" Superliner ride to Chicago was a first for many of the girls. While in Chicago, the girls enjoyed occasional taxi rides as an alternative to walking. Home base was the Astor House Hotel at 1100 S. Michigan Ave. The hotel also provided a ride around town on a double-decker bus.

The second day of the trip was spent sightseeing. The girls toured the Chicago Sun-Times, followed by a sightseeing boat trip on the Chicago River, through the locks, and out into Lake Michigan. After fueling up on a lunch of burgers and fries, the girls took a walking tour of the Loop area. Included on the tour was Marshall Field's, the Picasso, Calder and Miro sculptures, the Chagall mosaic, and the Sears Tower. For dinner the girls tried various German foods at the Berghoff Restaurant, fulfilling an interest project requirement.

Another day was spent at the Museum of Science and Industry, where they saw the lighting display at Buckingham Fountain. On their last day in the city, they went window shopping at the Water Tower Place and along the "Magnificent Mile." In the afternoon some went swimming in the hotel pool while others visited the Field Museum of Natural History.

The highlight of the trip was a dress-up evening out. After a Chicago pizza at Gino's East, the group went to the Drury Lane Theater to see "The Fantasticks," starring Robert Conrad. In addition to having front-row seats at the theater in the round, the girls found it surprising that one of the actors was a former schoolmate and friend of their leaders. After the play, the group visited with Mike Genovese, who played "the actor," and collected autographs, including Robert Conrad's. Following the play, the group went to the John Hancock observatory to see the city by night.

Earning the travel interest project patch marked the completion of work toward the Silver Award for Elizabeth Stark, leader Dana Kinder, Rhonda Allen, Niki Bausch, Becky Bonvicino, Karrie Frazier, Dineen Griffin, Ragina Herrin, Lisa Jackson, Jill Kinder, Cheryl Lenz, Christine Loyet, Shelly Nash, Diane Oliver, Becky Palovich, Jaimee Patterson, and Cheryl Swift.

The following Troop 328 scouts participated in the trip: Rhonda Allen, Niki Bausch, Becky Bonvicino, Karrie Frazier, Dineen Griffin, Ragina Herrin, Lisa Jackson, Jill Kinder, Cheryl Lenz, Christine Loyet, Shelly Nash, Diane Oliver, Becky Palovich, Jaimee Patterson, and Cheryl Swift.

The scouts are planning some sightseeing in St. Louis after the trip, and the auxiliary and leaders are planning some sightseeing in St. Louis after the trip, and the auxiliary and leaders are planning some sightseeing in St. Louis after the trip.

The text of Ann's winning essay is as follows: "America is a great land, a place of freedom for all. Religious and political freedom are granted to each and every person who lives in America. What a privilege it is to be able to go to worship without fear, to be at peace when I pray at Mass and other devotions. How lucky I am to live in America and be free! When I grow up, I can vote like my Mom and Dad do now. This privilege I will always use as I want good leaders to be elected to govern our country.

Opportunities for a good life are open to all who try to attain this goal. We must get a good education and do our job well, and we will be a success.

Caring for one another will keep our country great. I wish the entire world could experience the freedom we Americans have. How proud I am to be a citizen of this wonderful country!

America is a home to some people from every country on the earth. For this reason it is known as the "Melting Pot." People of every race and nationality immigrated to America and are proud to call America their home. They worked hard to build a good home in America and fought in Wars to defend their freedom. Thank God, I too am an American whose ancestors immigrated from Poland to make their home here!

Education School is accredited

The School of Education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has been accredited until Sept. 1, 1987, by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE).

The accreditation is based on an evaluation of the professional education programs at SIUE, was recommended by an interim team that visited the local campus in March. The program was fully reviewed and accredited during 1977-78 under a 10-year cycle plan.

The school puts the stamp of approval on all teacher education programs at the university," said Don Baden, associate dean for planning, development and evaluation, in a statement to the School of Education. "They looked at the institution as a whole and recommended it for full accreditation possible."

Baden said the interim visit is a mid-term review of progress being made on previous weaknesses or concerns. It is based on guidelines developed by national standards. In recommending the extension, the interim team found standards being met in all areas.

The council adopted the accreditation resolution at the NCATE meeting in Louisville, Ky., this summer. The SIUE School of Education, with 1,000 students in graduate and undergraduate degree programs, will be listed in the 29th NCATE "Annual List of Accredited Programs, 1982-83," to be published in October.

Hearing on new GC zoning classification for banks

Attorney Leo Konzen, representing Granite City Trust & Savings Bank, has received approval of the City of Granite City Plan Commission for a public hearing on July 15 on a proposed zoning amendment. The amendment consists of putting banking and financial institutions in a zoning category that is presently included in professional offices.

The two-acre site under discussion is now in Nantuxi Township, outside the city limits at 3344 Maryville Road, at Buenger Boulevard.

The amendment would change the C-4 central business district zoning required for the establishment of banking and other financial facilities. Instead, these businesses would have C-1 commercial office zoning.

The City Plan Commission meeting, originally scheduled for July 8, has been changed to July 15. The meeting will be held in courtroom six of City Hall, 2000 Edison.

The meeting will be called to order at 1:15 p.m.

Also on the meeting's agenda is a petition for a zoning reclassification for John Jones, 1420 State St., requesting a M-2 (light industrial) rather than the present C-4 central business commercial zoning.

zoning regulations, banks may only be constructed in C-4 areas. This category allows a variety of businesses, including hotels, taverns, service stations and restaurants, but the C-1 restricts businesses to offices, such as ones operated by attorneys, doctors and similar professionals.

According to Konzen, the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission said that C-4 is an appropriate classification for a banking facility.

ALLEGES BATTERY IN TAVERN INCIDENT

Robert C. Odom, 32, of 2500 Lincoln Ave., was charged in a warrant with battery last week in connection with an incident occurring at 11:25 p.m. July 5 at Eddie's Lounge, 2600 Nameoki Road. He was released a short time later on payment of $202 cash bond.

Mel Haveron, 2341 Delta Ave., alleged Odom walked up to him in the bar, saying "I don't like you," and mentioned some work done for a relative of Haveron's last July. Odom then struck him in the face, causing a laceration near the mouth, Haveron alleged.

As a result of the altercation, Haveron was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center and underwent surgery, the report stated.

New Zealand nun gives high marks to local hospice program

By MIKE MOORE
of the Press-Record

"St. Elizabeth Medical Center was one of the three hospice programs I was recommended to visit by England officials," said Sister Mary Margaret from New Zealand. Sister Margaret is visiting various hospice organizations in the nation, including Boulder, Colo., and New Haven, Conn. Hospice is a program of home care which emphasizes physical, emotional and spiritual comfort for persons with advanced cancer, and for their family members. Emphasis is on care of physical symptoms and other problems associated with this phase of the illness, rather than on cure of the disease.

"Priority is given to control of symptoms of the patient and on supportive care for both the patient and family members," said President of St. Elizabeth Medical Center Sister Mary Thomas.

Sister Margaret is spending eight months touring various areas observing different programs. "I spent six months in England and arrived in Boston a fortnight (two weeks) ago," said Sister Margaret. During her entire trip, Sister Margaret is traveling with her belongings in a "gassage bag."

One difference between New Zealand's hospice and the ones in the United States is that the people of New Zealand financially support their program. In the U.S., the government reimburses hospice. "That's why we have so much paperwork," said Sister Thomas.

Both sisters emphasize that hospice is for the terminally ill, but it is not a "death house." "It's not just holding hands, but teaching people to deal with emotions that come with dying," said Sister Thomas.

Hospice encourages patients to live at home, if possible, but they can stay in hospice beds any time without going through regular admittance procedures. There always is a nurse on call, should anyone need to talk to someone on the phone. "Just knowing someone is there is comforting," said Sue Fever, nursing supervisor. "Sometimes people go to the hospital to sustain life and they end up sustaining death, and that may not be comfortable for the patient. Hospice doesn't try to increase life with I.V.s, oxygen etc., we just try to make the patient comfortable," said Sister Thomas.

Hospice helps give quality to the life patients have left and they are encouraging people to live each day with a good sense of personhood and to maintain their identity.

Since Sister Thomas' arrival Monday, she visited the Muny Opera to see "The Sound of Music," watched the "freerackers," viewed the eclipse, went to the Arch and to a jazz concert. "I was amazed at the huge crowds," said Sister Margaret.

Sister Margaret had never seen nor eaten popcorn before coming to America because New Zealand does not grow it. "I love popcorn now. I'm going to take some seeds back and grow some. It's so good and it's low on calories," said Sister Margaret as she popped a batch of popcorn in the hospital cafeteria.

"The biggest benefit of my trip was that I was able to identify with common problems all hospices have. It's good to know people everywhere are caring for people and it gives me courage to carry on. New Zealand has a young hospice program, but it is very strong," said Sister Margaret.

"We're very proud to have Sister Margaret visit with us. It's reassuring to visit with other hospice programs so you can say we're doing okay," said Mrs. Fever.

St. Elizabeth Medical Center has had a hospice program for nearly three years and currently is remodeling the fifth floor. Doctor's Wing to become oncology and hospice units, with the Medical Center Auxiliary assisting. SEMC's hospice program has 22 bed units and six private rooms.

A RARE TREAT. Sister Mary Margaret of New Zealand found popcorn to be one "taste of America" she enjoyed, because popcorn is not grown in her native land. She was here visiting the hospice program at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Check your tax bills now, Cruse advises

Granite City Township Assessor Von Dee Cruse again stressed last week that taxpayers should carefully examine their tax bills and assessments now. He added two important rules of thumb:

- 1-Check your tax bill—in the past there have been mistakes made on taxpayers' bills due to computer error, namely not receiving credit for the Senate Bill No. 1790 Exemption or the Senior Citizens' Homestead Exemption.
- 2-Check the assessed valuation—multiply the assessed valuation by three and the result should feel that it is too high, now is the time to file a formal complaint. Taxpayers have 30 days after publication of the assessment list, which was June 28, to file the complaint.

"The assessor's office is ready to help taxpayers and welcomes the opportunity to satisfy any concerns you may have regarding your assessment," the Cruse said.

Amend weapon charges to felonies in Venice case

Informational documents were issued last week by the Madison County State's attorney's office amending previous misdemeanor charges of unlawful use of a weapon to felony status against Kevin A. Campbell, 25, of 191 Lee Wright Homes, Venice, and a 36-year-old East St. Louis man.

The charges were revised because both men have prior convictions involving weapons, according to Venice police, who had sought the felony warrants.

Chief Judge Joseph J. Barr increased the bonds on each man to $50,000. Both were charged with not having Firearm Owner's Identification (FOID) cards.

The East St. Louis man appeared at a preliminary hearing Friday and charges were dismissed and he was released, it was learned. Campbell remains in Madison County jail.

The men were arrested June 20 on Route 3 at Bissell Street by Venice Officer Timothy Simmons, assisted by Corporal James Bennett of the Venice Police Department and Madison Officer Gary Marsala. Just nine minutes after Venice police were informed of an incident, involving alleged use of weapons.

A .38-caliber blue steel revolver, loaded with six live rounds, was recovered in weeks to a foot from the halted auto, and a .45-caliber automatic weapon was found laying on the rear floorboard of the car. An automatic clip, loaded with seven rounds of .45-caliber ammunition, was discovered in the car trunk.

Two other men in the vehicle, Jerome Kirkland, 26, of 1104 Douglas St., Venice, and Roland Rox McCellan, 38, of East St. Louis, also were charged with unlawful use of a weapon and not having FOID cards. Bonds of $30,000 and $15,000 were set on Kirkland and McCellan, respectively, and they were transported to the county jail on June 23.

Plan rules for state leasing of facilities

Rules developed by the Department of Central Management Services governing the leasing, management and sale of state property are scheduled to be reviewed Wednesday in Chicago by a joint committee of the General Assembly.

Once acted on by the 16-member committee, the rules will immediately go into effect and govern the activities of state agencies under the governor's authority. Drafted by the department, the rules are intended to govern the leasing of state-owned property and in some cases will formalize existing practices.

Some of the proposals include regulations which would:

- Require agencies to use state-owned facilities before leasing privately owned space.
- Assure that the size and type of facilities occupied by various state agencies are appropriate.
- Hold expenditures for leased facilities, including remodeling, down to the lowest obtainable cost.
- Provide for an on-going review of state agencies' use. The review system is intended to assure that space is being economically used.

Michel on short end of White House stick

By ROBERT ESTILL

WASHINGTON — An age-old question in politics is, "What have you done for me lately?"

Ever the team player, House GOP Leader Bob Michel of Pennsylvania is asking that question out loud, but one has to wonder if he does not ponder it when dealing with the Reagan White House.

Michel's reward for service to the White House appears to be a stick in the eye of the largest manufacturer in his district in the form of anti-Soviet trade sanctions, which have contributed to lay-offs by Caterpillar Tractor Co.

What Michel has done for the administration is obvious. He has been a steadfast warrior carrier who has rarely spilled a drop. The administration's victory last year, and this year in a Democratic-controlled House are due in no small measure to Michel's ability to hold together a contentious coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats. His skill at wheeling and dealing has been the glue that held the mix together.

Holding the troops in line has required—and will continue to require—Michel to spend many long hours in huddles here, valuable time that he could otherwise spend campaigning for re-election in a new district where a Michel victory cannot be taken for granted.

What the Reagan administration has done for Michel is less obvious, particularly if one separates the White House from the remainder of the executive branch bureaucracy. Michel's position has insured that he gets a quick response generally from the bureaucracy. When constituents have concerns or problems, Michel usually can slash through the red tape with a telephone call directly to a Cabinet member or agency head.

But that leadership benefit does not garner widespread public attention.

What is most visible is the White House refusal to ease the sanctions that have contributed to the financial woes of Caterpillar, which has its world headquarters in Michel's hometown.

It is the kind of situation that causes unemployed Caterpillar workers to ask, "Where is Michel's clout when it counts?"

And Michel's problem is not even limited to the Caterpillar employees. His new district includes parts of Sangamon County, and the Fiat-Allis plant in Springfield has lost business and jobs because of the sanctions.

Michel's response to the sanctions has been remarkably restrained. He has criticized the sanctions—intended to delay construction of a Soviet nuclear gas pipeline in retaliation for repression in Poland—as being ineffective and a "farce" because the Soviets have been able to buy what they need from U.S. allies such as Japan.

But Michel has stopped short of urging the administration to lift or ease the sanctions as others in the Illinois delegation had advocated.

Michel had planned to take that next step. He had requested a meeting with Reagan at which he intended to ask the president to either modify the sanctions, go Caterpillar could go ahead with the $90 million sale of pipelayers to the Soviets, or provide some convincing evidence that the sanctions are working.

If Michel could not persuade the administration to ease the sanctions, he wanted to be able to tell laid-off Caterpillar workers that their sacrifice had some meaning.

That request was made two days before Reagan announced he was expanding the sanctions to cover overseas subsidiaries of U.S. firms and foreign companies licensed to do business for U.S. firms. Michel's meeting request went unanswered, and he was notified of the expanded sanctions only a few hours before the public announcement. A Michel aide said the administration had made its decision at the time of Michel's request for a meeting, knew Michel's position and thus was in no hurry to give him the bad news.

The Michel aide also said the impact of the sanctions on Caterpillar has been "overblown." He said most of the pipelayers involved are believed to be already in stock and the deal would not have triggered substantial re-employment. But he said it does represent a serious loss of both present and future sales. He added that the perception that the sanctions are responsible for most of the Caterpillar lay-offs can be as damaging politically as the reality.

Michel has tried an end-run around the sanctions, urging the Defense Department to buy more Caterpillar equipment. Whether that effort will succeed remains to be seen.

In the meantime, Michel's concern has to be whether unemployed factory workers will hold the Reagan administration and its highly visible defenders such as Michel—responsible for their plight.

$150 MILLION BOND SALE BY ILLINOIS
Illinois has accepted a bid on its latest general obligation bond sale at an interest rate lower than a similar sale made in October. The sale on Thursday occurred only days after bond market analysts for the 14th consecutive time rated Illinois an AAA credit rating.

A financial syndicate led by Chase Manhattan Bank of New York made a bid of 11.33 percent, edging out a second bid of 11.36 percent on a $150 million, 25-year bond sale made by Solomon Brothers of New York. In October 1981, the state sold $100 million in 25-year G.O. bonds at 11.56 percent interest. The new sale provides $60 million for capital development, $50 million for highways, $20 million for mass transit and $10 million each for energy development and anti-pollution programs.

Rabies again called threat to Illinois residents

By MARY RICHARDS
Illinois Department of Public Health

In 1981, a record-breaking year for rabies, 357 animals were confirmed as rabid in Illinois.

And there are certainly many more rabid animals especially skunks — in rural areas of the state that die without even being sent to the laboratory.

It is usual when the wild rabid animal comes in contact with domestic animals that rabies becomes a problem for human beings, though occasionally a person has direct contact with a wild animal he is attempting to help.

Rabies is transmitted through contact with the saliva of a rabid animal.

Although it is usually transmitted through a bite, it can also be transmitted in other ways, like a scratch, or handling the animal in such a way that you come in contact with its saliva.

If you come in contact this summer with a dog or cat that has been exposed to a rabid animal — or one you suspect might be rabid — the cat or dog should be captured immediately, confined and observed for ten days.

If the domestic pet shows signs of rabies during that 10-day period, it should be sent by the local Animal Control Officer to the state health department laboratory for testing.

If those tests are positive, then the person bitten should start the rabies shots immediately.

The state health department urges you to have pet dogs and cats vaccinated against rabies so that you can avoid having to take the series of rabies shots if you are ever bitten.

Last year, 403 people in Illinois had to take these shots. It is on the other hand, the dog or cat is alive and well at the end of ten days, the person who was bitten has nothing to worry about.

If you see a wild animal that you suspect might be rabid, the animal must be sacrificed immediately and sent to the laboratory for examination.

Livestock are exposed to rabid animals as fairly often. Last year, 40 farm animals were confirmed rabid.

This is disturbing because people have more frequent contact with domestic animals, and this means more human exposure to rabies.

A farmer, or anyone, who sees a stray animal and has a reason to suspect rabies should immediately contact the local animal control office. You should stay away from the animal, of course, and if possible keep your domestic animals away from it.

What you should not do is try to capture or restrain the animal. Personnel from the animal control office are trained in the proper methods of capturing and restraining rabid animals.

Those who want more information about rabies may contact the Illinois Department of Public Health, Division of Disease Control, 535 W. Jefferson St., Springfield 62761.

WARRANT ALLEGES USE OF UNTAGGED TRAPS
A Granite City man alleged that two men, older model car had yelled obscenities at him and his family at 20th Street and Edwardsville Road at 5:55 p.m. Saturday.

The car was located in the 1300 block of Rhodes Street, where police talked to the men who denied being involved in the yelling incident.

However, a warrant issued by the Madison County Sheriff's Department, alleging trapping with untagged traps, was found to be outstanding against one of the men, Frank A. Finazzo, 28, of 2501A Washington Ave., who was arrested. He was released to a deputy sheriff at 6:20 p.m. Saturday.

ALLEGED SPEEDING, MARYVILLE WARRANT
Randy R. Hayes, 31, of 2145 E. 24th St., was arrested for speeding in the 2800 block of Madison Avenue at 5:40 p.m. Friday and a check disclosed an outstanding warrant, issued by the Maryville Police Department, alleging failure to appear in court on a charge of driving while his license was suspended.

Hayes told police he had appeared Thursday on the Maryville charge. He was ordered released on notice to appear by Associate Judge P. J. O'Neil until court records are clarified. Hayes posted a $52 cash bond on the speeding charge and is to appear in court Aug. 3.

 ⑲ LITTLE HOUSE ON THE PRAIRIE

Save for the silver lining.

There's an old song that advises you to look for the silver lining. Certainly a good piece of advice. But here's some better advice! Save for the silver lining.

Save enough to line those dark clouds. It's easy. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. On the Plan, you set aside a little each payday for Bonds. And that'll chase some gloom away, right off.

But if dark skies should appear, remember, Bonds can help you find the sunny side of life.

Take stock in America.

When you put part of your savings into U.S. Savings Bonds you're helping to build a brighter future for your country and for yourself.

'Facts of Life' goes to Paris

By ALAN L. GANSBERG

HOLLYWOOD — The cast of "The Facts of Life" is heading to Paris this summer to film a two-hour television movie aptly titled, "The Facts of Life Go to Paris." It could very well be the first time a show normally done on videotape is being turned into a film movie.

The storyline has Mrs. Garrett — CHARLOTTE RAE — going off to attend a cooking school in France, while the four students — LISA WELCHEL, KIM FIELDS, NANCY McKEON and MINDY COHN — are supposed to be going to summer school. Naturally, the girls get a chance for adventure, or misadventure, and perhaps a chance for l'amour.

Jo will be trying to make it to the car races in Le Mans. Natalie will be searching for the literary Paris of Hemingway. Tooti wants to find the romantic Paris and Blair just wants romance.

The show will air in September to kick off the fourth season of the NBC series.

Meanwhile, for Lisa, the trek to Paris comes as she has just returned from Greece, where she guested on "The Love Boat" special that will air this fall. It's all a long way from her home in Texas.

"Facts" is a spin-off from "Diff'rent Strokes," and the young star of that show may not work at all this summer by doctor's orders. GARY COLEMAN has had a kidney transplant for many years, and toward the end of last season his problems returned. Word is he has been back on dialysis for months.

Gary has gone back home to Chicago for the summer and is reportedly playing with friends, resting and getting his health back. It may cause him to forgo a role in a TV movie that NBC was planning, but that is yet to be seen.

Last year at this time, Gary's agents and lawyers were gearing up for a fight for more money for their client. This year, there's a walk out by "Dukes of Hazzard" stars JOHN

SCHNEIDER and TOM WOPAT, who claim that they've been cheated out of money due them from the merchandising revenues from "Dukes."

An insider from Warner Bros. TV, which produces the series, asked not to be named, but explained that the company thinks the actors are mistaken. By union rules, they are each entitled to 6 percent of all revenues brought in by merchandising of their likenesses.

The spokesperson insists that they have received all due them, but believes the actors are pressing for a piece of the total revenues, whether their likenesses are included are not.

It's been tough going on the set of "Cross Creek," a film on the life of author Marjorie Rawlings, which is filming in the Everglades of Florida. The cast and crew — including star MARY STEENBURGEN — find themselves miles away from a simple telephone. Civilization has disappeared.

RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN is only a few weeks into filming of "Thorn Birds," the ABC mini-series, but already he's looking down the road for future products. Chamberlain has made a deal with CBS for several movies once "Birds" is finished.

"Flamingo Road," which was canceled by NBC for prime time, could turn up on the daytime schedule. NBC is looking into turning the series into a half-hour daily show.

If it does go daytime, few of the "Road" stars are expected to return. BARBARA RUSH is already busy. She's finished work on a book, "How To Be A '10' After 39," which will be published in January by Stratford Press.

MARY CROSBY, who once shot J.R., makes her feature film debut as a reporter in "Last Plane Out." JAN MICHAEL VINCENT also stars.

It's SHARON GLESS who will replace MEG FOSTER in "Cagney & Lacey." Just last season Gless replaced LYNN REDGRAVE in "House Calls."

Simmon's slimming songs

By ROBIN WELLES

HOLLYWOOD — Richard Simmons loved New Orleans food so much that at age 15 he tipped the scales at 200 pounds. At 33, the 5-foot-7 Simmons now weighs a svelte 137 — and earns his living by telling millions of television viewers each day how he lost the flab. He also wrote a book called "Never Say Diet" in 1980. And now he's out with his first album, for Elektra-Asylum titled, appropriately, "Reach."

Simmons first job when he arrived in Los Angeles in the early 1970s (after he had lost weight on a crash diet) was as maitre d' at Derrick's, an expensive Los Angeles restaurant. He was appalled at the eager overeaters that he served. "People had positively no idea what they were doing to their bodies," he recalled. "I said to myself, 'This is self-destruction time. I can't feed people this stuff.'"

So he plunged heavily (sorry) into exercise centers.

included, along with illustrations of the exercises. Will this sort of thing sell on the mass market? You bet it will. Simmons has been climbing fast on the Billboard national sales chart. Urich knitting new series

By NANCY ANDERSON

"It's like knitting a big sweater," Bob Urich surmised.

"Everyone's bringing in different colors of yarn but it's not until you've knit it and put it on that you know whether you have a good sweater."

Bob, another of the leading men in the Burt Reynolds-Tom Selleck vein, was talking about his new series for NBC-TV, "Gavilan," in which he plays a former member of "The Company" who left intelligence work for marine biology.

Through the new series, he'll enjoy assorted adventures and romances, though unlike Magnum, he won't drive a fancy sports car while doing it.

"It was suggested that Gavilan have a fancy sports car," Urich said, "But I didn't want that unless he could have a car that would never run."

"Since no dealer wanted to provide a sports car that wouldn't run, we put Gavilan into a World War II jeep."

Urich is comparable to Reynolds and Selleck, because like them, he's a bright, handsome guy with a lively wit.

The wit will be one of the show's key ingredients, Bob promises.

Remembering "Vegas," a series in which he starred for ABC, he reflected, "Its humor appeared to be tacked on. I was always trying for it, but the people I worked with weren't always on my wavelength."

"So I made it clear that if I was going to do another series, I wanted to do some humor."

Admitting that "the sweater's not yet finished," that "Gavilan" is still in a fairly embryonic stage, Urich can nevertheless cite a few specifics as to what the series will and will not offer.

"We're not going to do any stories that could be done on another show," he swears. "If a story idea can be done on 'Hill Street Blues,' we don't want it."

"We're going to do stories about friendship, love and how far a man can be pushed without betraying loyalty."

Enticing Bob into "Gavilan," his sixth television series, were the talents of Nicholas Corea, supervising producer, and the deal he got from MGM which, with Leonard Goldberg's Mandy Films, is responsible for the show.

"This man," Urich says of Corea, "is a mad genius. He writes standing up. His office looks like a Taiwanese garage sale."

"He writes standing up so that he won't fall asleep while he's doing it."

As a veteran of the moderately successful "Vegas," Urich looked so good to MGM that the studio offered him three movies in return for his services in a weekly-television show.

He's just finished his first major feature, a $12 million film called "Endangered Species."

MGM has also loaded Urich with money to be used by his own production company for the development of projects.

"There were two ways to go after 'Vegas,'" he explains. "I could have entered the open market and waited for big movies in which case I might have waited one, two or three years or forever. Or I could have taken the power from 'Vegas' and parlayed it at a big studio into another series."

He settled for the latter when Goldberg called him and pitched "Gavilan." The clincher was an on-air commitment from the network, meaning that the show couldn't die aborning.

After 13 episodes, MGM will owe Bob another film.

"After 'Gavilan' is over and I'm tired of the Pritikin diet, I may do a television movie about the human condition," he thinks.

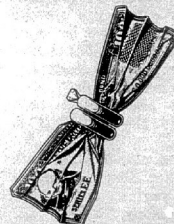

Meanwhile, he modestly says: "I haven't earned the right to be a producer. You have to prove yourself and surround yourself with the right people."

He continues: "I've learned that you don't have to do anything you don't want to do. There are ways to get what you want."

Bob's warm welcome by NBC is ironic because, as he tells it:

"Five years ago Tom Selleck and I did a pilot together for NBC called 'Bunco.' It didn't go."
